WAV Recognizes Elegant Packaging for Eight Years of Partnership

Aurora, IL- November 29, 2011 – WAV, Inc., the full-service, value added distributor of wireless broadband and MESH, networking and WLAN, mobile and rugged computing, data collection, RFID and printers and physical security solutions, has announced its recognition of Elegant Packaging, a designer and manufacturer of protective gear for mobile electronics, for dedication and superior service the past eight years.

Elegant Packaging's form-fitting, protective carrying cases are designed for the in-the-field use and provide portability, ergonomic carrying solutions, peripheral attachment, cord management and protection in harsh environments.

“WAV is proud to be aligned with Elegant Packaging for eight years,” said Norm Dumbroff, president and CEO of WAV, Inc. “In this industry, it pays to know and grow with our vendors through the test of time. Our dedication to Elegant Packaging, and their dedication to us, allows us to provide reliable technical and engineering support and services, ever increasing the value added to Solution Providers.”

WAV has one of the largest stocking positions throughout North America for wireless products and solutions. Manufacturers are carefully considered for their high quality solutions and complementary qualities to other existing WAV product lines - offering ISV, Solution Provider and Reseller's customers not just one wireless solution, but a variety of complementary technologies that will maximize project capabilities and bottom line.

WAV carries a line of more than 50 manufacturers, and provides a variety of value added services surrounding these product lines which include pre-sale and post-sale technical support, site surveys and installations, demo programs, leasing, maintenance contracts, and repair services.
